Kitten and Snow Globe Train to the Holiday Village

A SharkBoat AI Storybook

A kitten curled up soft and small,
Spied a globe train bright with all.
It shimmered there in silver light,
As flakes spun slow like stars at night.

The little train gave one sweet chime,
Like jingle bells in frosty time.
The kitten tapped the glass with care,
And watched white sparkles float through air.

Then whoosh! The globe began to glow,
And wheels clicked gently, nice and slow.
The kitten climbed aboard with cheer,
To ride through sparkly winter here.

The train rolled on through twinkling trees,
Past candy canes and frosty breeze.
It sang along on silver tracks,
While tiny bells bounced on its stacks.

A village peeked through snowy white,
With lanterns glowing warm and bright.
The kitten waved to friends below,
Who smiled beneath the gentle snow.

They shared warm cocoa, sweet and kind,
And festive treats for all to find.
The kitten purred beside the train,
In happy, cozy holiday gain.

Then back aboard with sleepy grin,
The little train rolled safely in.
It sparkled softly, snug and near,
To whisper, "Time for dreams, dear dear."

The kitten snuggled, warm and tight,
While snowflakes danced in moonlit night.
The globe grew still, the bells grew slow,
And dreams of village cheer did glow.